

PRACTICE FOCUS

Since 1983, Paul J. Winterhalter has been representing businesses and individuals in bankruptcy matters, commercial litigation proceedings, and a variety of other engagements involving sophisticated legal representations. It is his mission to provide every client, regardless of size or stature, with the most exacting and attentive legal representation possible. With an emphasis on providing excellence in legal representation on a cost-effective basis, Mr. Winterhalter never loses sight of financial implications for his clients on any action he recommends, and understands that clients' interests and goals are the priority.

Paul J. Winterhalter focuses his practice predominantly on business, financial, and bankruptcy issues. Mr. Winterhalter has been practicing in these areas for over 25 years, arguing matters before the United States Supreme Court, the Pennsylvania Supreme Court, numerous times before the Third Circuit Court of Appeals, and in many State Appellate proceedings. Mr. Winterhalter has separately tried cases in a variety of Courts and Jurisdictions including complex litigation in the U.S. District Courts, many Federal Bankruptcy Courts, and in various State Courts throughout the counties of Pennsylvania and New Jersey. This multi-faceted experience has enabled him to provide his clients with nothing short of superior legal representation.

Mr. Winterhalter believes that to be successful in representing a client's legal interest, one must possess the courage to take a case to trial. He is also mindful, however, that even litigation involving what might be perceived as the best or easiest of matters may not produce the most cost-effective result. Keeping the economical consequences of legal actions in mind, Mr. Winterhalter prioritizes your bottom line. He approaches every tactical decision holding your interests paramount.

"Life is ever changing. With change, you, either individually or in your business, may find yourself in need of the best legal counsel. My focus on your behalf will always be directed toward caring, competent, and cost effective representation. These three virtues must be the foundational principles for every client I represent."
— Paul Winterhalter
